To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to recommend Daniel Kasem, who served as a Backend Developer on our Numbers5 project in 2025. During his time with us, Daniel consistently demonstrated exceptional analytical ability, technical proficiency, and a strong commitment to delivering results that made a measurable impact on our virtual phone number management platform.

Daniel approached complex challenges with clarity and creativity, producing efficient, reliable backend solutions that enhanced both system performance and scalability. His proactive approach, adaptability, and attention to detail ensured that project milestones were consistently achieved with precision and professionalism.

Among his notable contributions were optimizing key operations, improving system efficiency, and helping establish best practices that continue to strengthen our development framework. Beyond his technical skill, Daniel's collaborative attitude and commitment to excellence made him an invaluable member of our team.

I confidently recommend Daniel Kasem for any opportunity that values innovation, technical excellence, and teamwork. He brings insight, reliability, and integrity to every project he undertakes.

Please feel free to contact me if further information would be helpful.

Sincerely,

James Walker
